Policy-specific information predicts willingness to enter self-coordination games